

Advanced Introduction to Metaphysics

This course will be a survey, at a graduate level, of the major questions of metaphysics. Possible topics include the existence and nature of the material world; mathematical objects; properties and relations; propositions, facts and events; space and time; necessity and possibility; causation and natural law; and personal identity.